Dr. Amundson has been actively involved in not only forensic assessment and expert testimony for the court systems but in regulation of the profession of psychology in Alberta. He has chaired committees, served as an ethics investigator and consultant to the professional association. He has made numerous presentations on topics ranging from legal and regulatory issues in psychology through family, child and individual issues in treatment and assessment. Specific reference to these activities and a list of on-going continuous education can be solicited, if desired.
